U.S. Cuba Policy Is Outlined In Closed Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., said Friday Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara "made it very clear that we are pursuing a policy that will result in the elimination of Castroism and Communism from Cuba."

Russell made this statement after the Senate Armed Services Committee, of which he is chairman, met behind closed doors with the defense chief.

In reply to questions, Russell said McNamara outlined methods for carrying out this country's Cuba policy, but he declined to divulge details on the ground that these are classified matters.

McNamara also assured the committee, Russell said, that U.S. planes will shoot down any Cuban-based MiGs that attack American ships or installations.

NO DOUBT

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — AFL-CIO leaders have decided to carry to President Kennedy personally a strong complaint on the administration's handling of domestic economic problems.

Union chiefs were reported Friday to have reached agreement at winter meetings that Kennedy's solutions to economic problems are too mild and that the President is failing to sell the public and Congress on the gravity of the situation.

It was agreed that George Meany, federation president, and Walter P. Reuther, chairman of the federation's Economic Policy Committee, will seek an early White House appointment to tell Kennedy as much face to face.

INADEQUATE

The union leaders feel Kennedy's tax-cutting plan and other programs are inadequate to increase lagging production sufficiently to supply the job openings needed for the rapidly expanding work force and for workers being steadily displaced by new technology.

The labor leaders, although staunch political supporters of the President, have decided to try to prod him into making more frequent speeches and statements to develop public pressure for economic aid measures.

Russell and other U.S. officials dismissed as holiday oratory the threat voiced in Moscow today that any American attack on Cuba would trigger World War III.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk, commenting on the speech by Soviet Defense minister Rodion Y. Malinovsky, told newsmen it was "what you would expect on the 45th anniversary of the Soviet armed forces."

Malinovsky, speaking before a Moscow audience that included Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, said:

"We would like to warn the aggressive circles of the United States that an attack on the Cuban republic would mean a third World War." He added that "the Soviet Union will be the first ranks of those who will come to its (Cuba's) assistance."

Russell said:

"If we are going to be guided in our defense and foreign policy...

Eastern U. S. Is Gripped By Record Freeze

By United Press International

Harsh, record-breaking cold gripped the eastern two-thirds of the nation Friday.

Dozens of low temperature marks for Washington's Birthday topped in the South, Midwest and East. Millions of persons suffered in the coldest weather ever recorded so late in the winter.

Residents of upstate New York's Lake Ontario "snow belt" battled up to 18 inches of new snow together with bitter cold which drove the mercury down to 31 below zero in the Adirondacks.

The nation's official low was 35 below zero at Pellston, traditional "ice box" of Michigan. But even more unseasonable cold was reported in Dixie, where the mercury dipped to 20 below on Mt. Pisgah and 16 below at Clingman's Peak in the Great Smokies.

All-time lows for so late in the season were recorded at Nashville, Tenn., where the temperature was 2 above; Indianapolis, Ind., with 9 below; and Pittsburgh, Pa., with 8 below.

Fair

An increasingly familiar winter weather story will be re-played in the Twin Cities area today as the mercury again begins a gradual climb toward more normal readings.

High today is expected at 48-55 degrees under mostly fair skies. Tonight's low is predicted to stop at 34-38 degrees. A winter-bright sky Friday raised the mercury to a high of 44 degrees at 4 p.m. from a low of 18 degrees at 7 a.m.

Little change is expected in temperatures through Sunday. Today, southwesterly and southerly breezes will blow through the area at 8 to 12 miles per hour.

Libya Airlift Is Begun By U.S. Planes

Stricken Farming Center Leveled By Earthquakes

AL MARJ, Libya (AP) — U.S. planes began a big mercy airlift Friday to this stricken farming center, all but leveled by three earthquakes that left more than 200 dead and thousands homeless.

This town of 15,000 was one of the battle grounds of the British and the Axis in World War II.

Schools and public buildings were turned into shelters for many of the homeless. The Americans and British flew in tents for others.

The best estimate is that at least 250 persons were killed and 150 injured. These are similar to figures announced by Radio Libya.

UNCONFIRMED

A U.S. Air Force spokesman reported 500 Libyans may have been killed and 1,000 injured, but these reports were unconfirmed.

The first shattering quake came at sundown Thursday and apparently caused the most casualties.

Two more quakes struck Friday morning as rescue crews worked through the mounds of rubble left by the first shock. Injured were treated in Bengazi hospitals.

The British set up joint relief headquarters with American relief in Bengazi, eastern capital of Libya, 55 miles southwest of Al Marj.

The hard-pressed Libyan Red Crescent appealed to Red Cross organizations throughout the world to send medicine, food and blankets.

The U.S. Air Force swung quickly into action from Wheelus, its sprawling base near Tripoli, the western capital, 300 miles west of Bengazi.

Eleven transport planes shuttled to Bengazi carrying doctors, nurses, medical corpsmen, medicine, food and tents.

The aerial bridge to Al Marj was completed by U.S. helicopters that brought in relief workers and supplies and carried out the wounded.

The British Royal Air Force fired in doctors, nurses and relief supplies from its base on the island of Cyprus, the Mediterranean island 300 miles north of Bengazi.

A number of policy statements being issued during session of the AFL-CIO Executive Council mildly chide the President that his programs are too modest. Reuther wanted to include some sharply worded criticism.

Meany was asked whether a meeting has been arranged. He said it had not, and that published reports that he and Reuther will see the President were mere guessing. Meany noted, however, he never had trouble getting a White House appointment.

Absentee voting is underway for the City of Monroe's $61.2-million revenue bond issue which will be held March 12.

Carter Cozine, parish deputy clerk of court, said the deadline for casting absentee ballots is March 5 at 5 p.m. Voting is being conducted in the basement of the parish courthouse.

No ballots had been cast by Friday at 4 p.m., which was the second day that absentee voting had been underway.

The bond issue election was called by the Monroe City Council at the request of the Utilities Commission. If approved, bonds will be used to expand the city's electrical and water systems.

Officials have pointed out that the bonds would be supported entirely by the revenues of the utility system and would not require any increase in taxes or utility rates.

SEEKS NATO NUCLEAR FORCE

U.S. Representative Is Sent To Europe

WASHINGTON (AP) — A special representative of President Kennedy left Friday for Europe to explore the possibilities for a North Atlantic Treaty Organization nuclear force—a force viewed warily by some Congress members.

Livingston T. Merchant, a long-time U.S. diplomat, was called out of retirement to help seek an answer to a problem that was tough enough to start with and has been compounded by French refusal to participate in a multinational atomic force.

Merchant will base in Paris and then will visit other NATO capitals to sound out sentiment on use of surface ships, as well as submarines, for mounting Polaris missiles.

Whatever emerges is certain to undergo the closest kind of scrutiny in Congress.

This was made clear today in a meeting of members of the such subcommittee might not be recommended by present law governing Senate House Atomic Energy Committee which was briefed in atomic weapons.

The joint committee has wide powers under the law to control use of U.S. atomic devices and some members indicated it remains dubious about the practicality and desirability of a NATO nuclear force.

Passman Not Candidate For Governor

Congressman Otto E. Passman announced Friday that he will not be a candidate for governor in this year's campaign.

The Fifth District solon, who said previously that he was considering the race, explained that he reached his decision after several months of "careful thought and serious consideration."

In a statement from Washington, Passman said he made his decision based on the "proven value of my congressional seniority in this crucial period of our nation's history."

In these special circumstances, added to the already dangerous trends toward more powerful centralized government in Washington, it would be an impossibility for me, in good conscience, to voluntarily neglect or lay aside my Congressional duties," he stated.

Passman, a member of Congress for 17 consecutive years, is chairman of the House subcommittee on foreign appropriations and has led a fight for the past several years to reduce foreign aid spending.

"I hope that my many friends throughout Louisiana who have urged me to make the race for governor, and who have pledged their support to my candidacy if I should enter the campaign, will understand my action in this matter, and will recognize that I am heavily indebted to the people of the Fifth Congressional District, who through the years have placed abiding faith in my ability to help keep some degree of fiscal stability in the ever-expanding federal government," he said.

Passman did not indicate whether he will support a candidate in the upcoming governor's race. He stumped for Gov. Jimmie H. Davis in the second primary of the last campaign.

However, Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., the committee chairman, indicated that the majority of the group is taking a wait-and-see attitude and not attempting to pre-judge an arrangement that hasn't even been worked out.

Pastore said when Merchant appeared before the committee, no commitments were asked and none given.

Rep. Chet Holifield, D-Calif., the committee's vice chairman, said "We would consider any proposal on its merits."

Pastore noted that President Kennedy stressed at his news conference that any sort of agreement finally reached will be submitted to Congress.

This was made clear today in a meeting of members of the such subcommittee might not be recommended by present law governing Senate House Atomic Energy Committee which was briefed in atomic weapons.

The joint committee has wide powers under the law to control use of U.S. atomic devices and some members indicated it remains dubious about the practicality and desirability of a NATO nuclear force.

SEEKS NATO NUCLEAR FORCE

U.S. Representative Is Sent To Europe

WASHINGTON (AP) — A special representative of President Kennedy left Friday for Europe to explore the possibilities for a North Atlantic Treaty Organization nuclear force—a force viewed warily by some Congress members.

Livingston T. Merchant, a long-time U.S. diplomat, was called out of retirement to help seek an answer to a problem that was tough enough to start with and has been compounded by French refusal to participate in a multinational atomic force.

Merchant will base in Paris and then will visit other NATO capitals to sound out sentiment on use of surface ships, as well as submarines, for mounting Polaris missiles.

Whatever emerges is certain to undergo the closest kind of scrutiny in Congress.

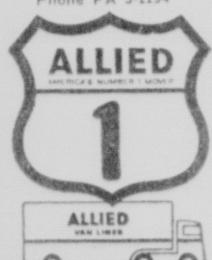

This was made clear today in comment from members of the Senate House Atomic Energy Committee which was briefed in secret by Merchant earlier this week.

The joint committee has wide powers under the law to control use of U.S. atomic devices and some members indicated it remains dubious about the practicability and desirability of a NATO nuclear force.

Louisiana Queens On Capital Tour

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bevy of glamorous Louisiana beauty queens, here to participate in a gala Mardi Gras ball Saturday night, toured the White House, Capitol Hill and other points of interest Friday.

But while looking over the sights, the 39 Louisiana lovelies were a considerable attraction in themselves.

The group, including 27 reigning Louisiana festival queens and 12 maids in waiting, was given an early morning tour of the

Farm Bureau Crowns Queen At Youth Night

BASTROP (Special) — Miss Pat Perrino, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Perrino of Bastrop, was crowned queen of the Morehouse Parish Farm Bureau at Youth Night ceremonies here Friday night.

Runners-up were Miss Diane McKoan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. McKoan of Bonita, and Miss Susan Snipes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Jordan of Bastrop.

Emceeing the Youth Night festivities which also featured a junior and senior division talent show and a talk meet contest was John Filoil of Monroe.

Winners of the senior division talent contest were Jo Lynn White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren White, and Donna Green, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rex Green, both of Mer Rouge.

The pair performed a comedy pantomime titled: "Your Chewing Gum Loses Flavor On The Bedpost Overnight."

In the junior division Mildred Lynn Loughridge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leland Loughridge of Oak Ridge won the talent show with another pantomime.

Judges for the talent show and beauty contest were Mrs. Rankin Earrle, Everett Zeagler and Cecil Hill, all of Monroe.

Other contestants in the beauty show were Donna Harp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Harp of Bonita; Carolyn Laing, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Laing, Mer Rouge; Susie Kelly, T. P. Kelly, Bastrop, and Illeen Petrus, Mr. and Mrs. Connie Petrus, Bastrop.

In a third activity at Youth Night Jackie Nolan son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Nolan was presented a cup for his outstanding speaking ability. Mrs. Fred Laing presented young Nolan with the prize-winning cup.

Thelbert Bunch, president of Morehouse Parish Farm Bureau, opened the session and also crowned the queen.

Special music for the night's entertainment was played by pianist Jim Robinson.

Setup Outlined For Operation At Ouachita High

Temporary arrangement to "conduct the affairs" of Ouachita High School, until a new principal is named, was announced Friday by Parish Supt. W. W. Ward.

Ward said Assistant Principal Paul Bauer and Guidance Director S. T. Howell will be in charge of the principal's duties—at least until a meeting of the parish school board is held.

Next regular meeting of the school board is scheduled March 5.

C. P. Brupbacher resigned Thursday as OPHS principal with the resignation effective immediately.

Ward also said that Miss Josephine McCranie, who is serving as visiting teacher, will devote part of her time to guidance work at OPHS under the temporary arrangement. She formerly served as guidance director at the school.

Russians Threaten U.S. With Nuclear Devastation

MOSCOW (AP) — Defense Minister Rodion Y. Malinovsky in a speech Friday threatened the United States with nuclear devastation should it attack Cuba.

"We would like to warn the aggressive circles of the United States that an attack on the Cuban republic would mean a third world war," the 64-year-old marshal declared.

If an attack on Cuba is made, he continued, "the Soviet Union will be in the first ranks of those who will come to its assistance."

In a bristling address delivered in matter-of-fact tones, Malinovsky declared: "We once again firmly remind the Western leaders that the Soviet Union cannot be intimidated. The might of our retaliatory blow will be more than enough to make the aggressors burn in the very first hours of war."

Malinovsky wound up by declaring that a war started by the West "will be the last war" and "the entire system of capitalism will be buried, once and for all."

Seated just behind him as he addressed an audience of 6,000 in the Kremlin was Premier Khrushchev, originator of the threat to bury capitalism. Khrushchev wore the gold-trimmed pale blue uniform of a lieutenant general and a full array of decorations on his chest.

The occasion was the eve of the 45th anniversary of the Soviet armed forces and Malinovsky's remarks sounded to some like morale builders.

Khrushchev did not address the assemblage, which included diplomats and military attaches of East and West stationed in Moscow.

Malinovsky warned that a war involving Cuba "will be waged not only in the territory of Cuba but in the territory of the United States, too."

He referred to a recent statement to the House Armed Services Committee by his American counterpart, Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara.

"I maintain emphatically that in retaliation to the 344 missiles with which Mr. McNamara is threatening us, we shall deal a simultaneous blow of several times more missiles and of such a tremendous nuclear yield that it will wipe off the earth all targets, industrial and administrative-political centers of the United States, and will destroy completely the White House and greens when the temperature had slumped to 8 degrees.

After a bus tour of the city the girls reached the Capitol at noon. They visited the Senate gallery and heard Sen. Winston L. Prouty, R-Vt., read George Washington's farewell address. Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., meantime briefed the Senate's attention to their presence in the gallery.

They then went to a luncheon in the Senate caucus room, attended by members of the state's Congressional delegation and a group of Louisianians here for the ball, sponsored by the Louisiana State Society of Washington.

The girls and their escorts—midshipmen from Annapolis—were guests at a dinner in the Sheraton Park Hotel Friday night.

Kevin Patrick Reilly, Baton Rouge, La., advertising executive, and 19-year-old Maurine Perez, a beautiful blonde and a freshman at Louisiana State University, will reign as king and queen at the ball and pageant in the grand ballroom of the Sheraton Park hotel. About 2,000 will attend.

Davis Is Praised For Refusal To Sign Agreement

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The Louisiana Manufacturers Association commended Gov. Jimmie H. Davis Friday for refusing to sign a federal agreement to make Louisiana eligible for $700,000 in manpower and development training act funds.

"While it may be true that Louisiana is losing some federal money by not participating in this program," the LMA said, "it is also true that the taxpayers of this state will not be called on to provide additional millions in matching funds—both immediate and long-range."

The government advised Louisiana last week it temporarily had lost almost $600,000 of a $700,000 allocation for training and retraining unemployed persons because the governor had not signed a contract.

About $500,000 in other funds available to the Department of Education for trade school programs under the federal act also is endangered because the Board of Education has not signed an agreement with the federal government.

The LMA estimated the program would cost Louisiana about $2.3 million starting in fiscal 1964.

Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., said, "The Communists will never start a war unless they feel they are ready to win. When they do, they will start it no matter what we do." He added:

"I think the Russians know that we could destroy them if they ever start World War III."

Russell met with reporters after McNamara concluded four straight days of secret testimony on the administration's $55-billion defense budget.

Scotting at the Soviet suggestion that any U.S. one on Cuba might touch off another World War, Russell said:

"I do not believe that the Russians are 10 feet tall. I hope we can avoid any nuclear war because it would kill tens of millions of Americans while we were eliminating them."

It was when asked if U.S. policy on Cuba had been clarified that Russell said the aim is to eliminate Castroism.

In doing so, the United States will "see that communism will not be exported from that island to other Latin American countries," Russell said.

Stennis said in a speech prepared for a Richmond, Va., audience that he hopes his Senate subcommittee's inquiry into the Cuban situation will contribute to the shaping of a "firm policy which will finally rid the Americas of this cancerous growth."

Back Home

Back home after a quick flying trip to Mexico City is Bobby Pappas, who lives on the Loop Road.

However, Bobby ran into a little trouble — he caught the Mexican bug. The bug, in case you're not familiar with it, is a virus that's easy to pick up in Mexico. It makes you deathly sick, but Bobby says he's just about over it now.

Birthday

George Washington doesn't have an option on birthdays.

Feb. 22. At least one person of our acquaintance shares the date with him.

She's Mrs. Edith McCormick, wife of West Monroe City Judge John McCormick.

Mrs. McCormick doesn't represent all the attention given the first president's birthday.

She got attention of her own — the judge was reported planning a big shrimp supper.

Norphlet Almost Evacuated Friday

The truck driver and two train men were injured slightly. The engine and 15 freight cars derailed in El Dorado and Smackover, a town nine miles north of Norphlet. The ammonium nitrate car was shipped from the Monsanto Chemical Co. in El Dorado, was most of them had returned home by afternoon.

When the 74-car Missouri Pacific to boil down to this: Either accept

Dorado to Little Rock, collided with the residents. Then as the fire the gasoline truck, gasoline grew they returned.

When the freight car burned

the granular chemical used for fertilizer spilled onto the grade crossing. Then the firemen put out the blaze quickly.

"I'm glad to see the boat back in one piece," said Jackson.

The MIG attack did no harm to the Ala or her two-man crew.

Jackson and his mate, Benjamin Washington, said the planes fired into the water about 200 yards from the vessel.

Jackson, who was removed from the Ala along with Washington by the Coast Guard soon after the attack, was anxious about his 800-pound shrimp catch.

He hopped aboard as soon as the Senate solemnly went through its traditional observance of

George Washington's birthday

Friday but the ritual seemed of more interest to visiting sightseers than to senators.

The galleries were reasonably well filled but less than a dozen senators were on hand as Sen. Winston L.

Prouty, R-Vt., performed the traditional reading of Washington's Farewell Address.

They said he suffered a broken wrist. Cuts inside his hands required 22 stitches.

Police said neighbors heard a scramble at 3:45 a.m. Then the Heidemans' son Ricky, 5, knocked at the neighbors' door and said:

"My daddy is beating up my mommy and there's blood all over the house." A second son, Keneth, 4, slept through the slaying.

Mrs. Heideman, wearing a nightgown, lay in the kitchen.

The couple's housekeeper, Esther Wilson, told police: "He was a wonderful, happy man who would never hurt a fly, much less his wife. They were very much in love. Why, only last night they were laughing and talking about a trip to Mexico this weekend."

The family physician, Dr. Paul

Zukin, said Heideman was having trouble getting writing assignments. He was in financial difficulty and under psychiatric treatment, the doctor added.

He had written segments for the

"Bonanza" and "Checkmate" series.

Officers said Heideman told them he woke up Friday morning after a bad dream. His wife drew him a hot bath as she often did on such occasions. She started to help him into it, but he didn't want her to help him this time.

She insisted, and he hit her.

She ran from the bathroom and he chased her, grabbing the seissors. He stabbed her and his mind went blank, the police said Heideman told them.

Monroe police booked two men for burglary and West Monroe officers booked two for theft. Friday, with other departments reporting a quiet day.

West Monroe officers booked

two West Monroe youths, James

Deems, 18, of 133 Spline Dr., and

Jon Walker, 17, of 117 Pinewell

St., both for theft. Capt. Charles

E. Dorch said the boys were booked in connection with their investigation of a series of soft drink machine break-ins and thefts.

Monroe police booked Fred Balbo, 44, of Chicago, Ill., and Julie Ivy Barrett, Shreveport, both for burglary Friday, but would not release any information concerning the incident.

West Monroe officers were investigating the Thursday night

break-in of Smitty's Garage,

3212 Cypress St. They were also probing the attempted burglary of

Silmon Wholesale Company, 209

Claiborne St. This was the second such incident involving the business this week, when earlier more than $200 was taken from the company.

The Ouachita Parish sheriff's department was holding a 19-year-old El Dora, Iowa man, Paul

ing incident which occurred at

U.S. Cuba Policy Is Outlined In Closed Meeting

There were these other developments: by some Soviet marshal's propaganda, then we are going to be a second-rate power."

He said he regards the Soviet threat of a third World War as "breathing fire and brimstone for home consumption and to bolster up the satellites."

"I think it is significant that Mr. Khrushchev did not make that statement," he added.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said he sees nothing new in the Russian threats.

"They have said it all before," Mansfield commented.

Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., said the Russian threats "are undoubtedly intended to increase tensions throughout the world."

Aiken told a reporter, "Trying to keep the world off balance is their stock in trade."

Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., said, "The Communists will never start a war unless they feel they are ready to win. When they do, they will start it no matter what we do." He added:

"I think the Russians know that we could destroy them if they ever start World War III."

Russell met with reporters after McNamara concluded four straight days of secret testimony on the administration's $55-billion defense budget.

Sniffing at the Soviet suggestion that any U.S. ove on Cuba might touch off another World War, Russell said:

"I do not believe that the Russians are 10 feet tall. I hope we can avoid any nuclear war because it would kill tens of millions of Americans while we were eliminating them."

It was when asked if U.S. policy on Cuba had been clarified that Russell said the aim is to eliminate Castroism.

In doing so, the United States will "see that communism will not be exported from that island to other Latin American countries," Russell said.

As McNamara went into the committee room he noted to reporters that the shrimp boat did not display the U.S. flag, which might indicate that neither the MIG attackers nor U.S. interceptor planes knew that an American boat was involved.

McNamara commented that U.S. pilots and military forces must be certain of the facts before they use their weapons.

Russell said the Senate committee will resume its study of defense plans Monday with Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, as the chief witness.

If Russians Agree To Procedures

(Continued From Page One) is now prepared to reach a fair and sound agreement to halt nuclear weapons testing for all time. The Soviet position appears to boil down to this: Either accept the stated figures (demanded by the Soviets) or there will be no agreement.

"We have made it clear that we cannot accept these figures. The United States is directing its efforts to working out a sound and reliable agreement.

The position of the United States is that eight to 10-state inspections is a reasonable range for inclusion in a treaty.

"Recently Mr. William C. Foster, on instructions, indicated to the Soviet Union representatives that if there was a clear understanding on the set of principles governing on-site inspection procedures which would insure that each on-site inspection was meaningful, the United States was willing to consider possible acceptance of seven on-site inspections.

"The United States has been and remains ready and willing to strive to over the present difficulties that stand in the way of agreement. What is needed now is a similar willingness on the part of the Soviet Union."

Blow On Neck

Fatal To Woman In New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Police found a woman dead in a New Orleans apartment and said an autopsy today disclosed she was killed by a blow on the neck.

The victim, Patricia A. Carlson, 30, no local address, was found in the apartment of Wellborn Rounsville, 39, who said a friend had asked if he could use the apartment for a chat with the woman.

Police were holding Rounsville pending the outcome of a lie detector test. Rounsville said his friend later left and when Rounsville looked in on the woman, she was lying underneath a bedsheet and not moving.

The coroner's office said the autopsy indicated a blow on the larynx killed the woman, homicide officers reported.

Attacked Shrimp Boat Is Ready For Sea Again

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — A small American shrimp boat, attacked in international waters Wednesday by Cuba-based MIGs, was towed to port Friday. Her skipper said he's ready to take her to sea again.

The 72-foot Ala, by now probably the most famous shrimp boat in maritime history, was greeted at the Coast Guard base here by Paris Jackson, 44. The Charleston, S.C., native was in command when the MIGs opened fire while the Ala was dead in the water with a disabled engine.

Preparing For Defeat?

Before the unfortunate creation of the United States department of defense, military affairs of this country were largely run by the president of the United States and his military joint chiefs of staff. Men trained in war and defense were the principal advisers of the chief executive when it came to preparing for defense.

Now President Kennedy, who rolls out the red carpet for dignitaries of little Afro-Asian and communist nations, and who sometimes barely accords a handshake to envoys of major democratic nations, has turned the problem of defense planning over to a man who has had no experience in that line and who is known as a "whiz kid" or intellectual.

This man is Robert McNamara, who recently startled congress and the nation by proclaiming that he and the President did not deem it necessary to prepare for delivering an annihilating blow against Russia, if it should attack us, but merely wanted tit-for-tat exchanges. Apparently until Russia was ready to deliver the knockout blow.

After winning the presidential election, partly on the claim that the administration of President Eisenhower had allowed Russia to gain the ascendancy over the United States in missiles, Kennedy and his New Frontier exploded the missile gap myth and, shortly afterward, started downgrading this country's striking weapons, recently abandoning such missiles as the Skybolt and Hound Dog.

In an age when speed and striking power admittedly are what it takes to win a war (something McNamara has intimated he does not want to do) the defense department has concentrated on building conventional forces. Toward this objective, the army has expanded in the last Eisenhower budget, outlays for military research, development, testing and evaluation ran to $6.4 billion, of which $3.2 billion, or half, was devoted to missiles. By contrast, out of aggregate research outlays of $7.4 billion scheduled for fiscal 1964, only $2.2 billion, or 30 per cent of the total, will go for military research.

The main thrust of military science, in short, has shifted to less sophisticated, less powerful and less adequate implements of war.

McNamara's missile program looks like a planned schedule of "too little and too late."

Making Autos Safer

European manufacturers have started a commendable movement to make automobiles safer. Although American automobiles on the whole, probably are safer than European cars because, on an average, they are larger, manufacturers in this country might well emulate the Europeans by starting their own safe-automobile campaign.

Automobile traffic deaths in Europe don't come up with those in the United States, because of the far smaller number of vehicles and number of miles traveled, but they are greatly disturbed at the continent's accident rate which kills 65,000 persons a year.

The 16-nation Council of Europe may offer a prize to the maker of the car with the most safety features.

A commission of experts set up by the council has decided that today's cars have too many dangers.

Ready-Made Answer

When someone asked President Kennedy, at a news conference, if he thought Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. was qualified to hold the position of undersecretary of state, Kennedy countered by saying that there were some who even questioned the qualifications of Franklin D. Roosevelt Sr. before he was elected president. He seemed to believe Franklin Sr. was qualified.

It is generally known that the late President Roosevelt is President Kennedy's idol, example and counter-ego.

There are many who do not question President Roosevelt's ability to do the things he wanted to do but who are convinced that no other one man ever did this country as much harm as did Roosevelt.

For whatever they may be worth, we will mention four things Roosevelt did. He made the depression of the 1930s last 11 years, ending it only in World War II; abolished national prohibition, which had been in effect since World War features inside and out. They want a car designed to protect its occupants and to do minimum damage to anyone it hits.

Experts say stylish projections must be eliminated, the interior padded and improvements made on brakes and lights.

"It has been proved that the elimination of hazardous features of interior construction would prevent approximately 75 per cent of the fatalities," the commission's report said.

One feature alone, for outside protection, which its proponents claim would reduce deaths and injuries by about 75 per cent is an extended recoil bumper. Such a bumper would change head-on collisions from "steel - wall" stops to spring-cushioned stops.

Many believe that eventually, with improved safety provisions in automobiles, the unsafe driver, although perhaps no less obnoxious, will be less deadly.

Foreign Affairs Agency

Bills To Establish Agency Before Senate and House Committees: Would Train State Department

Hearings on the proposal to establish a Foreign Affairs Academy will soon be set by both the Senate Foreign Relations and the House Foreign Affairs Committee and there is a possibility that Congress will enact legislation setting up this training institution.

Establishment of such an Academy is not a new idea. Bills to establish such an institution have been thrown into the Congressional hopper in past years without attracting much attention.

But President Kennedy has just sent to Congress a message urging that it be set up. He did so after two recent special committees had studied the matter in detail. One was the Committee on Foreign Service Personnel, headed by former Secretary of State Christian A. Herter. The other was the President's Advisory Panel on a National Foreign Affairs College, headed by James A. Perkins.

It is planned that the academy will be the principal source of professional training and education not only of the State Department, but the United States Information Agency, the Agency for International Development and more than a score of other Federal agencies. Legislation proposed in Congress would transfer the facilities and duties of the present Foreign Service

Institute, operated by the State Department, to the new academy.

President Kennedy told Congress that such an academy would provide leaders to represent this country better abroad. He noted that the United States has "enormously expanded and diversified our overseas commitments, operations and activities" and that nearly 1,000 American citizens are currently serving this country abroad.

There is vigorous opposition to the proposal. One of its opponents, Representative Paul Findlay, Republican, Illinois, called it a foggy bottom West Point. Foggy bottom is a low, one-time swampy area of Washington, north of the Potomac River, where the State Department Building is located. Findlay said that such an institution is not needed and would not be beneficial in training American diplomats.

Other opponents have said that unlike the military sciences, training in the many skills that go into the making of a diplomat is available in scores of excellent private and public colleges and universities in the United States, and elsewhere in the world. Other arguments are that such a Government school would indoctrinate rather than educate.

Under the Symington bill and a similar one sponsored by Representative Wayne L. Hays, Democrat, Ohio, the institution would be located in or near the District of Columbia. It would be under the direction of a Chancellor appointed by the President. Its operations and policies would be determined and guided by a Board of Regents, headed by the Secretary of State.

The size and cost of the plant for the academy was not estimated either by President Kennedy or in the bills introduced in Senate and House of Representatives.

Senator Stuart Symington, who has been introducing bills for such an institution since 1959, in a Senate speech pointed out as did President Kennedy the large number of American representatives other than diplomats who are now working in civilian capacities in 127 foreign countries.

Symington said an adequate training program for the Foreign Service is needed just as we need the three military academies — West Point, the Naval Academy and the Air Force Academy.

It would be under the direction of a Chancellor appointed by the President. Its operations and policies would be determined and guided by a Board of Regents, headed by the Secretary of State.

Battle Over Aid

Government Will Extract $108.4

Billion From Taxpayers

In the fiscal year that ends on June 30, 1963, the U. S. government will extract $108.4 billion from the taxpayer in the form of income, excise, and social security taxes. The Treasury will pay out $116.7 billion. This is what the real, rather than the "administrative", budget calls for.

The Congress, therefore, has begun to look for ways and means to cut down the fiscal 1964 consolidated budget of $112.2 billion. If the will is there, many billions can be lopped off without doing the government or the country any harm in loss of services and benefits. For example, some $10 billion could be sweat off the military budget if Defense Secretary McNamara followed procurement procedures that would allow competitive bidding.

(At present, one Pentagon source estimates that less than 15 per cent of all procurement contracts are let competitively — the rest being negotiated on a so-called sole-sourced basis that multiplies cost to the government.)

But one of the prime targets will be foreign aid. Even before Congress has begun to set the President's request for almost $5 billion to be used in overseas handouts, the counter-attack has begun. State Department lobbyists are whispering to our bemused legislators that by propping up the economies of the underdeveloped countries we are not only helping them but ourselves.

The exact opposite is true. As a general rule, foreign aid does not help the recipient countries and it does hurt the United States economically. The balance of payments deficit, with its steady and dangerous drain on our dwindling gold reserves, is but one result of the nation's foreign aid spree.

If this argument sounds strange, I refer you to an excellent study of foreign aid written by Professor Edward C. Banfield of Harvard University and published by the American Enterprise Institute of Washington. Few people feel that they can take the time to read a pamphlet like "American Foreign Aid Doctrines" — much less pay a dollar for it. But if you can get your Congressman to read it, that should be a good first step.

Professor Banfield makes a number of points, some new and some old. For example, he dem

Pennsylvania Contractors Take

Orders From Nick Stirone

It would probably gratify Lord Acton to know that his maxim "Power tends to corrupt and absolute power corrupts absolutely" has become commonplace enough to serve as the text for editorials in daily newspapers. This is due in no small part to people like Nick Stirone, iron-fisted boss of Pittsburgh's common laborers union. Nick is officially President of the Laborers' District Council and President of the Construction, General Laborers and Laborers and Material Handlers Local 1058.

He is also involved in what is perhaps his final appeal to the United States Supreme Court upon which hinges a ten-year prison sentence and a $10,000 fine for criminal extortion.

His zeal in leaning on contractors finally caught up with him and he was eventually indicted for obstructing interstate commerce by extorting $31,000 from a contractor who supplied the concrete for a Pittsburgh steel mill.

He was found guilty and sentenced to five years in jail and a $10,000 fine. He appealed the conviction and won a new trial or quashed the conviction. In the new trial he was found guilty and sentenced to ten years in prison and fined $10,000, which sentence he is presently appealing.

When an out-of-state contractor came to Pittsburgh to raze downtown building on which he had successfully bid, he so learned that he couldn't do a job in the city without first doing business with Stirone. Not one stand on ceremony, Nick told the contractor: "I have a price of $35,000 on that job." Later it was scaled down to $10,000.

Preparing For Defeat?

Before the unfortunate creation of the United States department of defense, military affairs of this country were largely run by the president of the United States and his military joint chiefs of staff. Men trained in war and defense were the principal advisers of the chief executive when it came to preparing for defense.

Now President Kennedy, who rolls out the red carpet for dignitaries of little Afro-Asian and communist nations, and who sometimes barely accords a handshake to envoys of major democratic nations, has turned the problem of defense planning over to a man who has had no experience in that line and who is known as a "whiz kid" or intellectual.

This man is Robert McNamara, who recently startled congress and the nation by proclaiming that he and the President did not deem it necessary to prepare for delivering an annihilating blow against Russia, if it should attack us, but merely wanted tit-for-tat exchanges (apparently until Russia was ready to deliver the knockout blow).

After winning the presidential election, partly on the claim that the administration of President Eisenhower had allowed Russia to gain the ascendancy over the United States in missiles, Kennedy and his New Frontier exploded the missile gap myth and, shortly afterward, started downgrading this country's striking weapons, recently abandoning such missiles as the Skybolt and Hound Dog.

In the last Eisenhower budget, outlays for military research, development, testing and evaluation ran to $6.4 billion, of which $3.2 billion, or half, was devoted to missiles. By contrast, out of aggregate research outlays of $7.4 billion scheduled for fiscal 1964, only $2.2 billion, or 30 per cent of the total, will go for military research.

The main thrust of military science, in short, has shifted to less sophisticated, less powerful and less adequate implements of war.

McNamara's missile program looks like a planned schedule of "too little and too late."

Making Autos Safer

European manufacturers have started a commendable movement to make automobiles safer. Although American automobiles on the whole, probably are safer than European cars because, on an average, they are larger, manufacturers in this country might well emulate the Europeans by starting their own safe-automobile campaign.

Automobile traffic deaths in Europe don't come up with those in the United States, because of the far smaller number of vehicles and number of miles traveled, but they are greatly disturbed at the continent's accident rate which kills 65,000 persons a year.

The 16-nation Council of Europe may offer a prize to the maker of the car with the most safety features.

A commission of experts set up by the council has decided that today's cars have too many dangers.

Ready-Made Answer

When someone asked President Kennedy, at a news conference, if he thought Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. was qualified to hold the position of undersecretary of state, Kennedy countered by saying that there were some who even questioned the qualifications of Franklin D. Roosevelt Sr. before he was elected president. He seemed to believe Franklin Sr. was qualified.

It is generally known that the late President Roosevelt is President Kennedy's idol, example and counter-ego.

There are many who do not question President Roosevelt's ability to do the things he wanted to do but who are convinced that no other one man ever did this country as much harm as did Roosevelt.

For whatever they may be worth, we will mention four things Roosevelt did. He made the depression of the 1930s last 11 years, ending it only in World War II; abolished national prohibition, which had been in effect since World War

I; instituted integration, race-mixing and racial strife; started the United States down the road toward national socialism and away from its constitutional republican form of government.

We must go along with those who ask: "Was Franklin D. Roosevelt truly qualified to be president of this great and noble country?"

Bills To Establish Agency Before Senate and House Committees: Would Train State Department

Hearings on the proposal to establish a Foreign Affairs Academy will soon be set by both the Senate Foreign Relations and the House Foreign Affairs Committee and there is a possibility that Congress will enact legislation setting up this training institution.

Establishment of such an Academy is not a new idea. Bills to establish such an institution have been thrown into the Congressional hopper in past years without attracting much attention.

But President Kennedy has just sent to Congress a message urging that it be set up. He did so after two recent special committees had studied the matter in detail. One was the Committee on Foreign Service Personnel, headed by former Secretary of State Christian A. Herter. The other was the President's Advisory Panel on a National Foreign Affairs College, headed by James A. Perkins.

It is planned that the academy will be the principal source of professional training and education not only of the State Department, but the United States Information Agency, the Agency for International Development and more than a score of other Federal agencies. Legislation proposed in Congress would transfer the facilities and duties of the present Foreign Service to the new academy.

Other opponents have said that unlike the military sciences, training in the many skills that go into the making of a diplomat is available in scores of excellent private and public colleges and universities in the United States, and elsewhere in the world. Other arguments are that such a Government school would indoctrinate rather than educate.

Under the Symington bill and a similar ones sponsored by Representative Wayne L. Hays, Democrat, Ohio, the institution would be located in or near the District of Columbia. It would be under the direction of a Chancellor appointed by the President. Its operations and policies would be determined and guided by a Board of Regents, headed by the Secretary of State.

The size and cost of the plant for the academy was not estimated either by President Kennedy or in the bills introduced in Senate and House of Representatives.

Under Lord Symington's bill, the size and cost of the plant for the academy was not estimated either by President Kennedy or in the bills introduced in Senate and House of Representatives.

Mrs. Bushnell Says Prejudice Is Less Locally

Monroe drew special praise for "understanding" and lack of "prejudice" from Mrs. Louise Bushnell, director of the Women's Department of the National Association of Manufacturers, here Friday.

Mrs. Bushnell was hosted at a coffee by the Monroe Chamber of Commerce. She will be the featured speaker today at the Fifth District convention in Sicily Island of Louisiana Federation of Women's Clubs.

"Prejudice as prejudice doesn't exist in Monroe," she declared. "I have found an extraordinary amount of understanding here. There are none of the unkind, overt remarks which you hear in other parts of the country."

Mrs. Bushnell also said "there is less narrow-mindedness in this part of the country than even in New York City on many topics." In her discussion, she also urged that women go into politics.

"Sometimes a woman can do things that men cannot do," she explained. "Men are much more conservative than women. Women will fall in with new ideas sooner than men."

Mrs. Bushnell voiced criticism of the proposed United States Peace Corps. She pointed out that women volunteers give their time to many community projects through clubwork and organizations.

"One of the reasons I am in complete disagreement with Mr. Kennedy is that he will negate the activities of women with this home-front Peace Corps plan," she said.

Demonstration Is Broken Up With Tear Gas

MANAGUA. Nicaraguans shouting support for a long-dead anti-American rebel leader were broken up on Thursday night by tear gas.

The students had assembled to commemorate the 29th anniversary of the death of Cesar Augusto Sandino, who held out in the Nicaraguan hills for many years. After the meeting in the National University the students left in large groups. When guardsmen told them to break up, an official report said, the students began to throw stones.

The guardsmen fired their rifles into the air and then threw tear gas bombs. There were no injuries on either side.

Mexico Police Question Pair About Stabbings

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Police questioned an American and his Venezuelan wife Friday in the slaying of Fred Plumley, 65, and the knife wounding of Philip Bennett, 33, both of San Francisco.

Plumley was stabbed to death and Bennett wounded seriously. Both men were robbed in an apartment they shared. Their assailants took both money and their immigration documents.

Police would not identify the American they were holding. They said three other Americans and a Cuban are being sought.

Plumley's body was found face down in bed beside a wall on which pro-Castro slogans were scrawled. But investigators were unable to say whether political motives were involved in the killing.

Authorities theorized some of the men they were seeking were trying to leave the country with the passports stolen from Plumley and Bennett.

The guardsmen fired their rifles into the air and then threw tear gas bombs. There were no injuries on either side.

COLUMBIA (Special) — A labor disagreement between the union and the contractor has ham-strung work on Union Central Schools for Negroes in Caldwell Parish.

The school is part of a $2-million expansion program being carried out in Caldwell Parish.

The modern Negro school and white consolidated school were due to be finished by mid-summer.

Utilities Anyone?

CROSSETT, Ark. (Special) — The Crossett, Ark. City Council wonders what it is going to do about its public utilities problem.

Crossett Company stockholders not only owned the Public Utilities Company, but its water supply came from wells which served the mills. Now the company has been sold to Georgia-Pacific Corp.

City attorney William Arnold has been unable to get clear answers as to where ownership of the public utilities lies and what the chances are of the city's buying the water division of the utilities.

The mayor has suggested condemning the water system "and then buy it," but added, "But you don't know what you'd be buying. Utility doesn't own any wells, and when their 10-year leases run out they'd be without water."

The mayor said he felt the owners want to sell, as a package deal, telephone company and all, "but the city doesn't want to get into the phone business."

This resulted in holding men with two and three years of active duty completed.

Under legislation proposed to Congress and disclosed Friday by the Defense Department, those needing to be trained for what are called "hard skills"—electronics, radar, radio and missile specialties—could get up to a 10-month tour. This would be four months more than enlistees now serve.

On the other hand, those in "soft skills"—truck drivers and cooks, for instance—could serve as little as four months active duty before reverting to Guard and Reserve service.

A rifleman, the basic military man, would still need six months of active duty to become fully qualified, Army officials said.

Another major change under the plan would cut to six years the obligatory Guard and service in the ready Reserve of all new enlistees. This would knock out what has been for some an extra two years in the standby Reserve.

The proposal would establish one standard military obligation of six months in the Ready Reserve for all men enlisting between the ages of 17 and 26. Part of this time would be spent in active duty training at the outset, with the length of duty depending on the specialty of the man involved.

City Alderman Harry Fox said that moving the building would cost about $6,000 with an additional $6,000 to $8,000 for getting the building back in shape and properly furnishing it. A site would also have to be secured.

A new wood yard is planned by the paper company for the present site of the building. The Recreation Board turned down the building offer, stating that the $30,000 already on hand plus any additional monies that may come in later will be used to construct a gym for the recreation and commission program.

In charge of the orientation program, arranged for members recruited in the past year, was Membership Committee Co-chairman Tex Kilpatrick.

BASTROP (Special) — Area growers have until March 22 to sign up for the 1963 feed and grain program now underway, according to Edward Johnson, chairman of the local Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee.

Feed and grain producers will be given an opportunity to participate in the program by reducing acreages at least 20 per cent merge?"

Question Pair About Stabbings

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Police questioned an American and his Venezuelan wife Friday in the slaying of Fred Plumley, 65, and the knife wounding of Philip Bennett, 33, both of San Francisco.

Plumley was stabbed to death and Bennett wounded seriously. Both men were robbed in an apartment they shared. Their assailants took both money and their immigration documents.

Police would not identify the American they were holding. They said three other Americans and a Cuban are being sought.

The school is part of a $2-million expansion program being carried out in Caldwell Parish. The modern Negro school and white consolidated school were due to be finished by mid-summer.

ST. JOSEPH (Special) — A resolution passed by the Tensas Parish Police Jury urges property owners and citizens to participate in the observance of National Cleanup Month, in March.

Utilities Anyone?

CROSSETT, Ark. (Special) — The Crossett, Ark. City Council wonders what it is going to do about its public utilities problem. Crossett Company stockholders not only owned the Public Utilities Company, but its water supply came from wells which served the mills. Now the company has been sold to Georgia-Pacific Corp.

City attorney William Arnold has been unable to get clear answers as to where ownership of the public utilities lies and what the chances are of the city's buying the water division of the utilities.

The mayor has suggested condemning the water system "and then buy it," but added, "But you don't know what you're buying. Utility doesn't own any wells, and when their 10-year lease runs out they'd be without water."

The mayor said he felt the owners want to sell, as a package deal, telephone company and all, "but the city doesn't want to get into the phone business."

Sale Approved

WINNFIELD (Special) — The Winn Parish School Board has approved sale of $400,000 in bonds of the Winnfield Consolidated School District No. 5 of Winn Parish.

The sale represents the remainder of the $1,200,000 in bonds approved at the election held March 11, 1961. Sealed bids will be opened March 11.

Clinics Success

BASTROP (Special) — Seventy-two per cent of the 32,000 people in Morehouse Parish have taken the oral polio vaccine. Some 19,000 received the vaccine on the initial clinic day and an additional 4,000 took make-up doses.

The Bastrop Jaycees and the Morehouse Medical Association jointly sponsored the campaign, assisted by local civic organizations.

Bastrop Declines

BASTROP (Special) — International Paper Co.'s offer to give the Pines Club building to the city of Bastrop has been declined.

City Alderman Harry Fox said that moving the building would cost about $6,000 with an additional $6,000 to $9,000 for getting the building back in shape and properly furnishing it. A site would also have to be secured.

A new wood yard is planned by the paper company for the present site of the building. The Recreation Board turned down the building offer, stating that the $30,000 already on hand plus any additional monies that may come in later will be used to construct a gym for the recreation and commission program.

Grain Program

BASTROP (Special) — Area growers have until March 22 to sign up for the 1963 feed and grain program now underway, according to Edward Johnson, chairman of the local Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee.

Feed and grain producers will be given an opportunity to participate in the program by reducing acreages at least 20 per cent merce?"

Guards' Strike Is Averted By Late Dealing

LONDON (UPI) — An 11th hour compromise Friday night averted their second increase in 113 years, a strike by Tower of London. The 16th Century costumed yeomen who guard Britain's men warded, immortalized by Gilbert and Sullivan's "Yeomen of the Guard."

The War Office agreed to boost of the Guard Saturday if the War Office rejected their demands.

The increase raises the warders' present daily allowance from 70 cents to 87 cents for the duties they perform after the tower closes to the public at 5 p.m.

Shortly before the settlement was reached, a War Office spokesman said other arrangements would be made to guard the fortress if the strike occurred. However, he declined to say what the arrangements would be because it would "defeat the whole purpose of the tower as a fortress."

JFK To Confer With German Defense Chief

RIOS DE JANEIRO (UPI)—Brazilian Defense Minister Kauino Von officially opens here today. President Hassel will confer with President Kennedy in Washington next week.

A Defense Ministry spokesman said Hassel, who leaves Sunday for his first trip to the United States as defense chief, will also confer with Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Defense Robert MacNamara, and many other administration leaders.

The spokesman said he will see MacNamara and Rusk Monday. MacNamara and Deputy Secretary of Defense Roswell Gilpatric known will leave behind the Tuesday, the President on problems of daily life, dancing Wednesday, and then will fly to New York Thursday.

On Friday, they said, Hassel will deliver a lecture to the Councils, banks and shops will shut down until Wednesday, or even Thursday.

Government workers will leave the desks piled high with unfinished work until Wednesday afternoon.

INDIA GETS CREDIT BONN (UPI)—West Germany made $26.7 million in credits immediately available to India Friday to help ease that nation's economic difficulties caused by Communist China's aggression, each year to quieter interior cities until everything blows over.

It was announced.

Although carnival is celebrated throughout Brazil, Rio is the capital of this pre-lenten season. And "King Momo" is carnival's gay, fat ruler.

Rio's citizens and thousands of tourists will take to the streets to dance the country's colorful samba. Small and big night clubs will be filled with gaily costumed fun-lovers.

For four days and nights, Carnavas, as Rio's residents are known, will leave behind the Tuesday, the President on problems of daily life, dancing Wednesday, and then will fly to New York Thursday.

On Friday, they said, Hassel will deliver a lecture to the Councils, banks and shops will shut down until Wednesday, or even Thursday.

Government workers will leave the desks piled high with unfinished work until Wednesday afternoon.

Rio's train, plane and bus stations are already packed with thousands of persons who do not like the loud music and raucous noise of carnival, and who go to quieter interior cities until everything blows over.

JACKSON TWINS

THIS WAS THE CIVIL WAR

By MERTON T. AKERS
United Press International

The saga of the C.S.S. Nashville came to a violent end Feb. 23, 1863 on a shoal in the Ogeechee River south of Savannah, Ga.

The Nashville's career was a checkered one. She was part commerce destroyer, part blockade runner.

Little of the romance and daring - of the Confederate war cruisers which sailed the seas and burned unarmed Union merchantmen fell to the lot of the Nashville. Nor did she achieve much of the tremendous profits and adventure of the jaunty blockade runners which pitted their speed and daring against the Union port ships guarding southern ports.

Her destruction was a negative sort of victory for Adm. Samuel F. DuPont's Union blockaders but it removed her as a potential menace to northern shipping and gave the admiral a chance to try out this new ironclad monitors.

The Nashville was a fast and powerful merchant steamer which the Confederates seized in Charleston, S. C., at the start of the war.

Her commander, Robert B. Pegram, armed her with two small brass cannons - her decks were too light for heavier guns. He was supposed to carry James M. Mason and John Slidell, Confederate commissioners, to Europe but they took a smaller steamer instead. If Mason and Slidell had sailed on the Nashville the famous Trent case, which so nearly brought on war between the United States and Britain, never would have occurred.

For the Nashville sailed through the Federal blockade on Oct. 26, 1861 and reached England without interference from the U. S. Navy.

On the way she overhauled a Federal clipper ship, the Harvey Birch, captured and set her afire after removing the crew. Two days later, Nov. 21, the Nashville arrived in Southampton, England, the first time the British had seen the Confederate flag in one of their ports.

The Nashville had been damaged in a storm at sea and she was allowed by the Admiralty to undergo repairs for that damage but not to take on arms or ammunition.

But about that time news of the Trent case arrived in Britain. That gave the Nashville more time for repair because sympathy for the southern cause skyrocketed.

But before the Nashville was ready to sail a brand new Federal warship, the Tuscarora, appeared in the harbor. The British promptly notified her captain, T. A. Craven, that under international law 24 hours must elapse before departure of one belligerent ship in pursuit of another.

For a month the Tuscarora lay in wait, trying to cover both exits from the harbor.

On Feb. 3, 1862 the Nashville evaded Craven and sailed safely to Bermuda. Then she ran the blockade into Beaufort, N. C., taking one prize on the way.

From then until July the Nashville turned blockade runner under private ownership instead of remaining a Confederate warship. She made several successful voyages. But on her last one she escaped only by throwing overboard her cargo and quickly changing course in a rain squall, thereby evading a Federal warship which was closing in.

Now late in February 1863 the Nashville lay up the Ogeechee River, loaded to the brim with cotton and awaiting a chance to dash out to sea.

All that kept the Union blockaders from going up the Ogeechee and blasting the Nashville with their superior armament was Fort McAllister to the south of the fort just above where the river runs into the Atlantic. For eight months the fort had guarded the Nashville.

But early in 1863 the northern shipyards were turning out monitors, improved versions of the original Monitor which has fought the Merrimack to a standstill in Hampton Roads nearly a year before.

Admiral DuPont had seven of these new but untested ships. He wanted to try them out.

On Jan. 27, 1863 he sent one of them, the Montauk, into the Ogeechee against Fort McAllister.

The Montauk ran up to within 1,500 yards of the fort to a point where the masts of the Nashville could be sighted above the trees on a bend in the river.

For four hours the Montauk and the fort bombarded each other.

other. The Monitor was hit repeatedly but was undamaged. So also was the fort.

Again on Feb. 1 the Montauk moved in and engaged the fort, meantime keeping tabs on the Nashville. This time the Montauk was struck 46 times by Confederate shells but again was only dent.

DuPont was finding out that the monitors could take punishment but the Nashville remained untouched.

While the Montauk's crew was eating dinner late in the afternoon of Feb. 27, the Nashville was reported in sight.

The U.S.S. Seneca investigated and reported the Nashville was hard aground just above the fort. Capt. John L. Worden, commanding the Montauk, had also commanded the Monitor in its fight against the Merrimack.

He decided to wait until morning to finish off the Nashville.

He moved in for the kill at the first signs of light.

An officer of the Montauk described the Nashville's last hours.

"It was a mild, pleasant morning," he wrote, "and the surface of the river was scarcely broken by a ripple. At five o'clock and ten minutes we moved anchor, and in ten minutes more we were steaming at the rate of six knots up the river."

"There she is, swung by the tide, and now pointing downstream, yet still there hard and fast. We see many on her forecastle and considerable bustle and confusion...."

The Montauk anchored 900 yards from the fort.

"Fort McAllister is on our left, in the angle of the bend of the river... the Nashville is a mile and a half above the fort, but only 1,100 yards from us across the marshy peninsula, and lying with full, fair broadside toward us...."

"At seven minutes past seven we fire our first gun (the 11-inch) at the Nashville, and immediately they let fly at us from the fort three guns, but their shots all go by us...."

The Montauk continued to fire its 11 - inch and its 15 - inch, ignoring fire from the fort.

"At fifty - seven minutes past seven we discovered a small column of whitish - gray smoke coming out of her forehatch, and in ten minutes more the flame accompanies the smoke from the same place...."

"We fire our last shot at three minutes after eight, having fired 14 times; and as soon as the smoke has cleared away, we see the flames bursting out around her paddle - boxes....

The fog, which has been slowly gathering around us, now entirely shuts us in...."

"In a few minutes the fog and smoke had risen, revealing the Nashville enveloped in flames. The fire came out her sides, from around her smokestack base and masts, from between the ribs and braces of her iron wheels, and indeed she is shrouded in fire."

"At thirty - five minutes past nine she blew up with a smothering rumbling report like distant thunder. The explosion was midships... carrying with it the charred and broken timers, and the burning bales of cotton."

A Confederate admiral received $6,000 a year during the Civil War. As the fighting progressed and the Confederate money depreciated, the salary represented less than half of the figure in terms of gold.

Abraham Lincoln's visitors often expressed the hope that he would not be as unfortunate as President William Henry Harrison and Zachary Taylor to, as one expressed it, "be killed off by the presidency, or, as is sometimes hinted, by foul means."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

CAMPUS FRUSTRATIONS

THE COMPETITION in a modern college or university is so great, local psychiatrists are kept busy trying to keep many students on an even keel. Disturbed relationships with parents are common and some students become severely frustrated when they fail to come up to parental expectations.

A large percentage are able to solve their problems but failure to do so may end in mental illness of even suicide.

A social behavior also has been traced to emotional turmoil. Among these problems are vandalism, cheating on tests, theft of books, and pre-occupation with anti-intellectual activities. Others make poor grades compared with their ability. Psychiatrists often find these students emotionally immature and in general "mixed up kids."

They were overprotected as children and reach college with no awareness of the value of money, the need to buckle down, or the incentive to cultivate real character. As a result, their integrity drops a peg or two. They prefer to push the tricks of the trade - the shortcuts and compromises that bring good grades but not intellectual accomplishment.

Parents often do not realize how much help these young men and women need. Campus pressures both encourage and inhibit maturity and independence. The faculty is likely to be more interested in intellectual development than in character development. We realize that it may not be the job of the instructors and administrators to emphasize self-discipline, but it is surprising how we remember the professors who influenced our way of living and fostered a desire to learn.

More and more institutions are adding skilled personnel to help college students gain an insight into the nature and origin of their difficulties. They must learn to appreciate the attitudes of their parents, the need for self-discipline, and the lifelong advantages of integrity. This knowledge is not to be found in books and a Phi Beta Kappa key is a poor substitute for real happiness.

N. O. Carnival Crowd Ignores Freezing Wind

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - Hermes God of Speed, one year older a whole lot colder, ignored freezing winds as carnival revelers rolled through the streets of New Orleans Friday night tossing favors to cheering crowds.

Following tradition, the Hermes procession - complete with floats, bands, and masked costumers throwing trinkets to the onlookers - stopped to toast its queen, Judith Owen Miller, before the old City Hall.

The night parade rolled down Canal Street, New Orleans main thoroughfare, and through the historic French Quarter while the mercury hovered around 32.

Three parades are scheduled Saturday, five on Sunday, and one Monday night before the big day, Mardi Gras, climaxes the Carnival season Tuesday.

More and more institutions are adding skilled personnel to help college students gain an insight into the nature and origin of their difficulties. They must learn to appreciate the attitudes of their parents, the need for self-discipline, and the lifelong advantages of integrity. This knowledge is not to be found in books and a Phi Beta Kappa key is a poor substitute for real happiness.

MONO TWICE

A.C.M. writes: You said in your recent article on mononucleosis that one attack confers immunity. This is not true, as I have had it twice, four years apart, and the diagnosis was confirmed by blood tests. Do you think I am now immune?

REPLY

I don't know but your experience shows there are exceptions to every rule. Relapses are not unusual but recurrences are.

NO INSULIN PILLS

A. W. writes: Can insulin for diabetes be taken by mouth, instead of in shots?

REPLY

No. Insulin is not absorbed by the stomach and intestine and, despite all the advances in medical science, no one has been able to develop an insulin pill that works. The anti-diabetic pills do not contain insulin.

SKIN TAGS

J. F. writes: What do skin tags look like and can they be removed by the owner?

REPLY

These small, finger-like projections vary in size from the end of a pin to the head of a match. They can be tied off with a thread but it would be better to see a physician. He might remove the lesions with a thread or an electric cautery.

HOARSENESS

R. S. writes: Could postnasal drip cause a husky voice?

REPLY

Yes, when the discharge is thick or the larynx is infected. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on post-nasal drip.

Class C Action Ends Today

By KEITH PRINCE

World Sports Writer

After three girls games Friday, the stage is now set for today's concluding action of the class C regional basketball tournament being over Central of Delhi, 53-21, and Lisbon, which drew a bye into the semi-finals, goes against Marion, 39-26, to advance into the semi-finals.

In the "game of the day" Friday, Marion's sextet captured a 35-33 win over Ogden in three overtimes. Also, Enterprise rolled on tap this morning is a 10:00 game matching Summerfield and Marion.

Enterprise's girls, and at 11:30

Lisbon, which drew a bye into the semi-finals, goes against Marion, 39-26, to advance into the semi-finals.

At 1:00 p.m. today, Lisbon's boys make their first appearance in the meet with a contest against Marion.

Following at 2:30, Sikes' come-back crew squares off with rug-bag Monterey.

Both semi-final games this afternoon should be dandies. Big crowds are expected for each game as the four top class C teams in north Louisiana match shots and strategy.

Lisbon brings a classy reputation and record into today's action.

Coach Grady Saulters' Eagles

have romped for 48 victories

this year and have been stopped short only three times.

The Eagles are led by Coach Saulters' eldest son, Grady, and also depend heavily on another young Saulters, Larry by name, who is only a sophomore.

Lisbon's foe, Marion, won't be carrying any inferior complexes into the game itself. The Panthers of coach Glenn Post exhibited fine balance, ball handling and defense against first round foe Enterprise who they defeated, 65-48.

Marion led all the way against Enterprise on the 35-point total of Bennett Taylor, the play-making of Don Reeves and the rebounding of 6-4 Bobby Reagan.

Sikes and Monterey showed no signs of weakness either in their opening round wins.

WOODLAWN MEET

Finishes Today

Eleven games were played Friday in the Woodlawn sixth grade cage tournament.

In boys games Woodlawn trampled Linnville, 18-3, Kiroli won, 31-3, over Shady Grove, Swartz eased into a second overtime period.

During the first, Brasher netted Marion's tallies and Pat Pace hit the third overtime, 35-33.

The contest ended 31-31 after regulation time and in the first overtime period each team came up with two points, sending it into a second overtime period.

During the first, Brasher netted

Marion's tallies and Pat Pace hit the third overtime, 35-33.

The second period was all defense as neither team managed to score. It was finally won in the third overtime when Brasher hit to give Marion 35 tallies. Ogden failed to score in the period.

Brasher wound up with 29 points for the winners, including all of her team's points in the last quarter and three overtime periods.

Pace netted 14 for Ogden and

Joy Simons was close behind with 13.

THE MASTERS

The size of the Masters golf tournament has finally outgrown itself. The increasing number of invitations each year has made it necessary to cut the invitation list for the first time in the history of the big prestige tournament and tournament chairman Clifford Roberts announced Thursday that starting this year, past U.S. Open, Amateur and PGA champions and British Open and Amateur champions, who previously had been invited on a lifetime basis, will have their eligibility limited to ten years from the date of their championship.

Those champions failing to qualify under the 10-year rule still will be invited to attend as non-playing guests, Roberts said, and may take part in re-tournament activities but they will not be allowed to tee off in the tournament proper. Two exceptions to this will be Freddy McLeod, 81, winner of the U.S. Open in 1908 and Jock Hutchinson, 79, British Open winner in 1921 and PGA champion in '29, will continue to lead off on the first day of the tournament as they have done for years.

Last year 110 players accepted invitations to the tournament and 110 teed off the first day which made necessary to play threesomes for the first time—previously only twosomes had played. Roberts said that he hoped this would be avoided in all future Masters tournaments.

The new policy will affect quite a few of the players — Julius Boros, Lawson Little, and Lew Worsham all won their National Open titles before '53. Former amateur champions Skeet Riegel, Willie Urnesa, Dick Chapman and Bud Ward and PGA winners like Johnny Revolta, Vic Ghezzi, Chandler Harper, and Jim Ferrrier.

Some of these may qualify under other categories — Julius Boros will get in because he was one of the top 24 finishers in 1962. Previous winners of the Masters will always have the lifetime invite and this includes many of the greats such as Ben Hogan, Sam Snead, Cary Middlecoff, Jimmy Demaret and many more.

Others invited for the first time are: Richard Davies, British Amateur champ; Downing Gray, 36; Walker Cup team member and finalist in the National Amateur; Bobby Nichols who finished in the top 16 of the National Open; five of the quarterfinalists of the Amateur — Homero Blancos Jr., Charles Coody, Paul Desjardins, Jim Gabrelsen, and William Newcombe Jr.; Tony Lema and Jerry Fittman, picked for their showing on the circuit.

All in all, the Masters committee announced a United States Invitation list of 66 with 5 more players to be added by a ballot of former Masters, Open, and Amateur champions.

Robert Tyre Jones Jr., better known as the great Bobby Jones, is the father of this tournament and President of the Augusta National Golf Club, considered by many to be the greatest of all time. Jones won the U.S. Open and Amateur and British Open and Amateur all in the same year to make his great "Grand Slam" in 1933, something no other player has ever been able to duplicate. We know how he tries to omit some of his old friends but time does not wait on anyone.

Harrelson Wins Caldwell Big Buck Contest

COLUMBIA (Special) — Sherman B. Harrelson, school board member of ward seven in Caldwell, won the "Big Buck" contest for the Caldwell Parish Wildlife Unit's Big Buck contest. The buck he killed had twelve points.

Elton Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Thompson of near Columbia, won second place with a 11 point deer.

Harrelson received a .30-06 Winchester rifle and young Thompson a new .22 automatic rifle.

The Wildlife unit stages the "Big Buck" contest each year and it is open only to members of the unit. All hunters are given the opportunity to join before each deer season opens.

Recreation Basketball

Two church B league semi-final games and a midget league fifties contest were the only recreation action Friday night.

College advanced by whipping Temple, 47-24, on Causey's 18 points. Davidson scored 15 for the losers.

Also, Highland Park eased by Southside Methodist, 39-34, with McGowan and Wiggins each firing in 11 points. Schuler managed seven for Southside.

In the midget tilt, College Place beat West Monroe, 25-7, on Keith's 10 tallies. Tanich scored four to lead the WM Baptist.

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — A pitcher and catcher agreed to terms Friday as other members of the Cincinnati Reds' battery corps went through long bunting drills.

Gene Freese, the only infelder working out early, also gave his injured ankle another thorough testing during the second day of spring practice.

Freese ran hard, fielded ground balls and took batting practice to hasten conditioning of the ankle he broke here in a spring training game last year.

Freese said, "I think I can have as good a season as I had two years ago, although the pitchers are all a year more experienced than against some arms during the early part of spring training.

Pitcher Johnny Klippstein and catcher Johnny Edwards agreed to terms, the 33rd and 34th players in the Reds' fold. That left 15 in the converted hangar.

Jay is reported snowbound in at their minor league headquarters in West Virginia. He hopes to report Sunday.

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The Washington Senators stepped up the tempo of their workouts Friday with two pitching machines, a bazooka and jump ropes keeping all hands busy.

The pitchers practiced bunting in the cages where the pitching machines were in operation.

The catchers, and pitchers lacking in coordination were assigned to rope skipping drills. The pitchers also worked on forced plays and covering first base.

Larker Signs

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Milwaukee Braves signed one of their leading candidates for the vacant first base position. Friday DeBusschere became the 39th of promising rookie pitcher Dave Larker, who batted .323 and missed the National League batting title by only two points in 1960, slumped to .263 with Houston last season but hit nine home runs and batted in 63 runs while Al Lopez, appearing in 147 games.

Only Five Left

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Grace Ron Hunt, an infielder purchased conditionally from the Milwaukee Braves' organization, signed his marks from Manager Sam Mele.

Unsigned players on the roster of despite the Twins' over-abundance of left-handed starters.

"He had good arm action and they tell me he has good stuff," said Mele. "It's true that three of our four starting pitchers (Jack Kralick, Jim Kaat and Dick Stigman) are lefties and that we have a total of 12 southpaws in camp."

"But if Roggenkamp can get the batters out, he'll make this team."

Real Pleased

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — Manager Danny Murtaugh of the Pittsburgh Pirates said Friday he is real pleased with the attitude of catcher Jim Pagliaroni, obtained in an off-season trade with the Boston Red Sox.

Murtaugh said that Pagliaroni has accepted the idea that he can be the team's first string catcher.

If Pagliaroni can win the job, Murtaugh added, that would give him the chance to use Smoky Burgess for pinch-hitting duty.

Kaline Trains

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — Outfielder Al Kaline was in uniform for the first time Friday at the Detroit Tigers' training camp and had to work out all alone.

Chilly wind chased his battery men teammates indoors as Manager Bob Scheffing stressed caution against sore arms during the early part of spring training.

The Tigers' pitchers and catchers confined their two-hour drill to batting cage hitting and warming up in the converted hangar at their minor league headquarters.

Advance Guard

CASA GRANDE, Ariz. (AP) — Alvin Dark summoned an advance guard of his National League pennant winning San Francisco Giants to their first 1963 workout Friday at this training compound in the Arizona desert.

Fifteen pitchers, three catchers and three outfielders reported for the initial drill. It was in the cages where the pitching machines were in operation.

The catchers, and pitchers lacking in coordination were assigned to rope skipping drills. The pitchers also worked on forced plays and covering first base.

Unsigned players on the roster of the New York Mets. They are Frank Thomas, Marv Throneberry, Rod Kaneh, Joe Christopher and Elio Chacon.

Cullen Reports

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Jack Cullen, recently released from service, reported to the New York Yankees' training camp Friday, another addition to the already crowded mound staff. Jim Bouton, another pitcher, is due to join the club next week. Both were stationed at Fort Dix, N.J.

Marshall Bridges, also a member of the pitching staff, left for his home in Jackson, Miss., to recuperate for a month from a gunshot wound. Bridges was shot by a girl in a Fort Lauderdale night club during an argument. He will be back in March 22.

Bell Agrees

CLEVELAND (AP) — Friday pitcher Bell has agreed to contract terms for 1963.

Bell, a 26-year-old right-hander, won 10 games and lost nine with the Tribe last year. Nine of his victories came in relief, and he was credited with 11 saves.

Outfielders Chuck Essegian, Tito Francona and Willie Tasby are the only players who had not reached an agreement with the Indians on a new contract.

Tests Ankle

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Third baseman Gene Freese gave his ankle another thorough testing Friday while pitchers went through long bunting drill in the second day of the Cincinnati Reds' early spring practice.

Freese, only infelder to work out with the pitchers and catchers, ran hard, fielded ground balls and took batting practice to hasten conditioning of the ankle he broke here in a spring training game last year.

Absentees

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Catcher Joe Torre and pitcher Carl Willey were the only absentees Friday as Milwaukee Braves' batters opened training under sunny skies at their new spring base.

Torre, who is finishing up his military service, reportedly is satisfied with terms offered him. He batted .282 in 30 games last year. Willey was en route from his home at Cherryfield, Maine.

DeBusschere

DeBusschere, who will be playing at least until mid-March in the Detroit Pistons of the National Basketball Association, figures big in the plans of Sox Manager

DeBusschere.

There are lots of other pitchers in camp, but they have to earn their jobs.

"Everyone but Donovan has to prove he can pitch," Tebbets said as he watched 27 pitchers and catchers go through their paces Friday.

"Donovan (20-10) is one guy who definitely will start. There's no problem with Dick. But after him, I'm not making any plans."

Tebbets said he thought he knew what such pitchers as Jim Grant, Barry Latman, Pedro Ramos and Jim Perry could do.

"But their 1962 records don't show they can do it, so they've got to show me," Tebbets went on. "If they show me they are capable of starting, they'll start."

One Starter

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — As far as Manager Birdie Tebbets is concerned the Cleveland Indians have a pitching staff of one—Dick Donovan.

TIGER FAVERED

By BOB MYERS LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Mid-weight Champion Dick Tiger worst nights in the ring in my fight," Fullmer continued. "My wife will then be the boss and she'll make me quit.

"If I win, I'll be the boss and I don't plan on retiring."

There is no return match agreement as far as is known, and the Nevada Athletic Commission refuses to let such a clause appear in a contract.

Money terms are equal. Each fighter is guaranteed $30,000 from the $100,000 television revenue and 30 per cent of the gate receipts.

The co-promoters, Mel Greb, Norman Rothschild and Jack Doyle, anticipate a gate of around $120,000.

The World for WOMEN

MONROE MORNING WORLD Saturday, February 23, 1963 1-B

MURALIST ROBERT WALKER gives period pieces a fresh new look by the manner in which he has used them in his own apartment. Walls are white, floors stained dark. Rug, a Portuguese one, is in shades of beige, coffee and blue. Sofa repeats coffee tone and arm-chairs (with white finished frames) are covered with leather. Repeating the brown through beige scheme is the leopard patterned skirt on the round table. Ornate chest at right is olivewood trimmed with Ormolu and was imported from Sicily.

Popular Trend Advocates New Look To Furnishings

By BETTY PEPIK

One of the more popular approaches to interior decoration today is to take period furnishings and give them an up-to-date look. The resulting room is apt to appeal to those who like the clean uncluttered characteristics of modern yet have a yen for appurtenances of the past.

The furniture to be so treated can be either authentically antique or simple reproductions available in local stores. When the former is the case it is possible to achieve one of the most striking of all decorating looks and even if you select one with a period motif executed in a modern material like vinyl — it might almost prove to be a bridge between the furniture of the past and the decorating devices of the present.

Among these devices is a color scheme. A thoroughly unconventional one, even a shocker is called for in this kind of decorating. The strong nonprimary colors so popular today — peacock blues and persimmon like oranges have an offbeat quality that removes reproductions from the ordinary. Textiles and finishes should be suited to our own time, too.

Council Meet Held By Lincoln HDC

The Lincoln Parish Home Demonstration Council met recently for its first meeting of the new year. The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Fred Duggan, the outgoing president, and Mrs. N. L. Moneriel gave a devotional reading.

The first item of business was the installation of officers for 1963. They are: President, Mrs. J. W. Brewer, Ruston; Vice President, Mrs. N. L. Moneriel, Ruston; Secretary, Mrs. Gerald Elkins, Ruston; Treasurer, Mrs. Clyd Barnett, Hico; Parliamentarian, Mrs. B. C. Van Hook, Ruston; Reporter, Mrs. Herbert Smith, Ruston; and Historian, Mrs. Fred Duggan, Ruston.

Mrs. Duggan installed the officers using the theme: The Orbit of a Satellite With A Full Crew. Mrs. Oma Blondin as the Astronaut. Each officer was given an outline of his duties and cautioned about the importance of each duty being performed faithfully, and accurately in order to have a good blast off and return for the year 1963.

A report was brought by Mrs. Duggan, who is in charge of a council cook book to be published in the near future. This book will contain some of the best recipes, tried and tested by home makers of Lincoln Parish for inside and outside cooking. It will also contain household hints for everyday use; and a section for our 4-H Club members.

A tailoring clinic will be conducted by Mrs. Oma Blondin, Lincoln Parish, Home Demonstration Agent, February 21, 1963 at 9:00 a.m. in the kitchen at the Parish Courthouse. Pattern alterations to suit the individual will be emphasized, so choose flattering patterns. A style show is on the calendar "Spring and Summer," May 3, 1963. Sunday Afternoon Tea Hosted For Brides-Elect

Miss Mary Ann Bostick and Miss Gayle Thurston were honorees at a tea Sunday afternoon, February 17, in the Earl Brooks' home at Calhoun. Hostesses for the party were Mrs. Earl Brooks and Mrs. Archie Calhoun.

Miss Bostick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Bostick, will wed the reception rooms for the occasion. A lace cloth covered the serving table, which had for its centerpiece a bouquet of lavender flowers. Pink punch and coffee were poured by Miss Carolyn Taylor and Miss Brenda Custer, while Grace Todgers and Barbara Calhoun assisted with courtesies.

For their party Miss Bostick was wearing a dress fashioned with black velvet bodice and gold skirt. Miss Thurston was attired in a black suit with white blouse. They stood with their mothers and Mrs. Brooks to receive the large number of friends who called during the appointed hours of 2 and 5 p.m.

Council Meet Held By Lincoln HDC

The Lincoln Parish Home Demonstration Council met recently for its first meeting of the new year. The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Fred Duggan, the outgoing president, and Mrs. N. L. Moncrief gave a devotional reading.

The first item of business was the installation of officers for 1963. They are: President, Mrs. J. W. Brewer, Ruston; Vice President, Mrs. N. L. Moncrief, Ruston; Secretary, Mrs. Gerald Elkins, Ruston; Treasurer, Mrs. Clyd Barnett, Hico; Parliamentarian, Mrs. B. C. Van Hook, Ruston; Reporter, Mrs. Herbert Smith, Ruston; and Historian, Mrs. Fred Duggan, Ruston.

Mrs. Duggan installed the officers using the theme: The Orbit of a Satellite With A Full Crew. Mrs. Ona Blondin was the Astronaut. Each officer was given an outline of his duties and cautioned about the importance of each duty being performed faithfully, and accurately in order to have a good blast off and return for the year 1963.

A report was brought by Mrs. Duggan, who is in charge of a council cook book to be published in the near future. This book will contain some of the best recipes, tried and tested by home makers of Lincoln Parish for inside and outside cooking. It will also contain household hints for everyday use; and a section for our 4-H Club members.

A tailoring clinic will be conducted by Mrs. Ona Blondin, Lincoln Parish, Home Demonstration Agent, February 21, 1963 at 9:00 a.m. in the kitchen at the Parish Courthouse. Pattern alterations to suit the individual will be emphasized, so choose flattering patterns. A style show is on the calendar "Spring and Summer," May 3, 1963.

Each year at the first meeting of the Lincoln Parish Home Demonstration Council an outstanding club member from each Home Demonstration Club is given recognition for his work. Ten of the twenty - three clubs were represented. Those present were: Mrs. Vernon Stevens, Mrs. V. C. Lorraine, Mrs. W. R. Stewart, Mrs. Gerald Elkins, Mrs. Felix Simonton, Mrs. J. W. Cook, Mrs. F. W. Duggan, Mrs. Simmie Witman, Mrs. Wayne Herren and Mrs. Earl Colvin.

A tour of Hodges Gardens in Many, Louisiana has been planned by the Council on April 23, 1963 to honor these outstanding club members Mrs. Ruby Waldron, Antioch; Mrs. Felix Simonton, Barnett Spring; Mrs. Fred Duggan, Burgesville; Mrs. Vernon Stevens, Center St.; Mrs. Simmie Whitman, Choudrant; Mrs. J. W. Cook, Cooktown; Mrs. Malvin Hood, Cross Roads; Mrs. Whaylon Chandler, Douglas; Mrs. T. R. Huffman, Dubach; Mrs. Gerald Elkins, Early Birds; Mrs. Eugene Colvin, Fellowship; Mrs. Floy Colvin, Greenville; Mrs. C. B. Maden, Hays Station; Mrs. W. R. Stewart, Hico; Mrs. Jewell Mitchell, Hico Sr.; Mrs. V. C. Lawrence, Hilly; Mrs. Bessie Tomlinson, Riser; Mrs. Barbara Duke, Rocky Spring; Mrs. L. M. Napper, Simsboro; Mrs. C. O. Nelson, Westly Chapel; Mrs. Wayne Herren, Young Homemakers; New Hope and Vienna members will be named later.

The Logtown P. T. A. will present a "Woman's Wedding" March 8, at 7:30 at Logtown School Gymnasium. Price of admission will be 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children.

A few of the leading characters are: Mr. Harley Loy as the bride, Mr. Everett Zeagler as the jilted sweetheart, Mr. J. T. Lee as the groom, Mr. J. T. Bennett as the minister, with Mr. E. O. Hooten as director.

During the business session the nominating committee was nominated and voted on. Mrs. Mabel Ray as chairman with Mrs. Charlene Johnson and Mrs. John H. Jr. as committee members.

The government deployed more than 500 secret agents in strategic places throughout the city following early anti-Betancourt agitation by students and reports of caches of plastic bombs.

Walls in one residential section were painted with such slogans as "Betancourt, assassin" and "Betancourt, go home." The Editor Black broke into the metropolitan press when he wrote an editorial opposing expenditure of $175,000 for a building in Croswell and reported that its 12-year old, $27,000 post office was the newest building on Main Street.

Black said the present post office is more than adequate and is rented to the government for only $175 a month by his city.

He suggested the accelerated federal building program would take more money out of Michigan in the long run than it would pump in.

Lawton's editor Freer quickly agreed with Black in print, saying that southwestern town's present post office is "adequate now and for the foreseeable future."

"I wish we had said it first,"

Freer said. "We ought to save money. Certainly we could find better places to spend it. We need industry, but we can't seem to get any funds for what we need."

Mrs. Goolsby's Mancelona Herald took Black to task for suggesting that if Croswell didn't need a new post office maybe Mancelona and the others didn't either.

"Speak for yourselves," she told Black.

"We need a post office," she said.

"The one we've got is 85 years old. A petition made the rounds commanding Sen. Patrick

V. McNamara for getting Mancelona included, and practically every businessman in town signed it.

Pope Cheerful,Mentions Death*Again In Talks

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope John XXIII, looking fit and vigorous, referred again Friday to the possibility of death during an audience with foreign and Italian newsmen.

The 83-year-old pontiff displayed no visible signs of the ailment, which forced his confinement to his private Vatican apartments for more than a month late last year. It was obvious, however, that he had lost some weight.

The Pope was in high spirits when he received council members of the Italian and foreign press associations in the red-damask covered throne room of the Vatican Palace. He chatted and smiled amiably throughout the audience.

His voice was loud and clear during his 15-minute address to the newsmen during which he remained them.

"Dear gentlemen, there comes for everyone the time when he must prepare to depart from a place or from this earthly house, and to render account for his actions."

"May each of you be able to say I have not dug trenches of division or indifference. I have not saddened immortal souls through suspicion or fear. I have been open, loyal, confident, I have looked in the face with brotherly sympathy even those who did not share my ideals."

The Pope also admonished the journalists against the temptation of predicting future events with too much confidence. He said the adoption of the OAS or a "Your profession . . . would lead to sweeping ban on travel and funds you not only to interpret, but to and from Cuba. It also implied sometimes to anticipate the broadly that it felt that Latin course of events while in reality countries still maintaining the designs of Providence . . . relations with Cuba—Brazil, Mexico, main shrouded in a veil of mystery. They should break them."

Why Grow Old

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Some folks think that varicose veins afflict women only. This is not true. Mild treatment may save the day, probably due to the fact that the heavy hair of masculine legs, and physicians may use injections or surgery to remove the veins. Each males somewhat. That is just different.

Just what causes varicose veins? The blood travels from the heart through the arteries. It returns TO the heart through the veins. The return trip is much more difficult, since the blood has to move straight up. Three factors help with this process. Blood pressure is not as strong in the veins as it is in the arteries, but relieved by sitting or lying down. Movement of the muscles of the legs during your normal everyday activities, and exercise, help also.

The ways of nature are wonderful! Most important of all are the little valves in the veins. The veins are sectioned off by these small valves which are like doors that swing in only one direction. The valves open for the upward traveling blood and then close tightly so that the blood will not fall back down.

Faulty valves may allow some blood to seep back down. This causes the bulge in the vein below the defective valve. There is nothing to be done about that! However, other measures are helpful if you have this trouble and if your family has a tendency toward it, they might be preventative. Most important, see your doctor when you first notice any symptoms. This may be a ballooned-out vein or a heavy aching feeling in the legs. Early treatment is most important. Neglected varicose veins can give real trouble. Ulcers may develop and sometimes they are very slow to heal.

BRONX BARGAIN HUNTERS2 Shoppers Hurt During Near Riot

NEW YORK (AP) — They showed. They kicked. Some wielded clubs and occasiona y a hat pin and channel customers into the store in an orderly fashion.

Gao said police and firemen allowed 1,000 to 1,500 persons into the store every hour.

In the afternoon there still were 3,000 persons behind the barriers. The sidewalk in front of the store was littered with buttons from women's coats. Living among the buttons were a high-heeled shoe and a moccasin.

Before they were through it was a near riot with two persons injured, including a woman who was shoved through a 5-foot-wide, 14-foot high, plate glass window.

Some 50 policemen and three fire companies needed two hours to control the crowd that gathered in front of Alexander's department store, coveting such items as 29-cent tooth paste and $9.99 mint candies.

The metropolitan branches of May's and Gimbel's, however, were closed for the holiday.

Spokesmen for both stores said as a result of a policy of several years only their suburban 3 stores were open.

Bloomingdale's and Lord & Taylor also were closed.

Police set up rope barriers and used loudspeakers to restore order.

Those 5,000 women shoppers wanted to get at the Washington's Birthday bargains inside a Bronx department store. And they meant it.

In the afternoon there still were 3,000 persons behind the barriers. The sidewalk in front of the store was littered with buttons from women's coats. Living among the buttons were a high-heeled shoe and a moccasin.

Other department stores open in the metropolitan area included E. J. Korvette, Klein's, Saks and Arnold Constable.

Monroe's bid for the convention will be submitted Thursday at a special session of the LTA executive committee in Baton Rouge.

This meeting is being held primarily to select the site for the convention later this year.

Lottin said the bid is being explained the type structure needed for the dams, locations and estimated cost.

Requirements of the Wildlife and Fisheries Commission regarding structure of this type were discussed by commission members Cliff Williams of Monroe, Dewey Wills of Ferriday and R. B. Rimbie, a commission biologist in Concordia Parish.

Police jury members J. U.

Sen. J. C. "Sonny" Gilbert of

Saint Helena, and Rep. Lashie

Downes of Richland Parish as sured the group of their interest in the city and air field measured to 50 miles.

Patricia and Janis completed the first leg—about 23 miles—and then returned to the Naval Air Station. The extra mileage in the city and air field measured to 50 miles.

"I had so much fun I wouldn't have given up for the world," Pat

said. "I just got tired."

In Gulfport, four housewives be-thir husband's women were stronger and started out hiking for 50 miles.

The housewives are Mrs. Hudson Puckett, Mrs. Bob Wilson,

Mrs. Earl Phillips, and Mrs. Bill

Hayes, all of the Orange Grove community near Gulfport.

The girls began the hike from the air field to Meridian's Key

Field with three other girls, who did not complete the trip.

Market Report Is Incomplete

The market report in today's Morning World is incomplete due to the observance of Washington's birthday — a legal holiday.

The New York Stock Exchange was closed Friday for the event.

NEW YORK (AP) — All financial and commodity markets were closed Friday in observance of Washington's Birthday holiday. The Chicago livestock market was open as usual.

LOUISIANA MARKETS

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cattle: 599 head sold. Calves: slaughter, good to choice 26.50-27; standard 23-25.50; stocker, good to choice (250-lbs. up) 21-23.50; (250-lbs. down) 25-27. Steers and heifers: slaughter, good to choice none; standard 20-22.50. Hog trading too light to establish a market.

Broiler and fryer prices paid 15 cents; 91 per cent at 15; 9 per cent intra company transfers.

Hens: Heavy type at the farm 1,500 head at 18 cents. 80 per cent grade A or better, cases exchanged. Large 37-40; medium 35-39; small 31-35 cents.

LIVESTOCK

CHICAGO (AP) — Butcher hogs sold mostly steady Friday.

Mixed Nos. 1 and 2 grades at 190-225 lbs cleared at $15.50-16.

Mixed grades in the 190-230 lb range moved at $15.25-15.75 and other mixed 1-3 along with 2-3 grades up to 300 lbs at $14.25 and up. Sows were $12.25-14.

The small cattle supply included a few 1,200 prime grade which brought $25.75 with prices steady to 50 cents higher.

Choice to mixed high choice and prime of all weights brought $23.75-25.50 and the good grade $22.50-23.75.

The few vealers on sale were insufficient to test prices. Bulls sold weak at $18.19-50.

Pope Cheerful, Mentions Death Again In Talks

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope John XXIII, looking fit and vigorous, referred again Friday to the possibility of death during an audience with foreign and Italian newsmen.

The 81-year-old pontiff displayed no visible signs of the ailment, which forced his confinement to his private Vatican apartments for more than a month late last year. It was obvious, however, that he had lost some weight.

The Pope was in high spirits when he received council members of the Italian and foreign press associations in the red, damask covered throne room of the Vatican Palace. He chatted and smiled amiably throughout the audience.

His voice was loud and clear during his 15-minute address to the newsmen during which he reminded them.

"Dear gentlemen, there comes for everyone the time when he must prepare to depart from a place or from this earthly house, and to render account for his actions."

"May each of you be able to say I have not dug trenches of division or disaffection. I have not saddened immortal souls through suspicion or fear. I have been open, loyal, confident. I have looked in the face with brotherly sympathy even those who did not share my ideals."

The Pope also admonished the journalists against the temptation of predicting future events with too much confidence. He said: "Your profession ... would lead you not only to interpret, but to and from Cuba. It also implied sometimes to anticipate the broadly that it felt that Latin American States (OAS) and could include measures to isolate further the Communist Cuban regime. The OAS made public Friday a special security report urging new steps to meet "the increasing gravity of the threat posed by Castro-Communism."

Kennedy is scheduled to meet with the Central American presidents next month in San Jose, Costa Rica, to discuss the properies of the Communist threat to the area and other regional problems.

A special security committee of the OAS said in the report that new measures by the organization "may not be postponed" if effective steps to curb Communist terrorism are desired.

The special committee advocated adoption by the OAS of a sweeping ban on travel and funds to the broad that it felt that Latin American States (OAS) and could include measures to isolate further the Communist Cuban regime.

U.S. Considering Withdrawal Of Air Force Elements From South Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The U.S. government is considering ordering the withdrawal of American Air Force combat elements from South Viet Nam, The Associated Press learned Friday.

U.S. Army helicopter crews may receive orders in the next few days liberalizing rules under which they may shoot at Communist guerrillas. The helicopters would take over part of the role played by conventional fighter planes.

U.S. Air Force pilots are flying many of the operational strafing and bombing missions conducted by Vietnamese air force planes. During the past month, more than 35 per cent of enemy casualties claimed by the Saigon government and American command were inflicted by air force strikes.

U.S. pilots technically are in Viet Nam in purely advisory or supporting capacities, training the Vietnamese air force. In practice, a critical shortage of Vietnamese pilots has led to Americans piloting many planes.

Officials, both Vietnamese and American, have raised doubts if the effectiveness of air strikes against guerrillas is outweighed by the harmful psychological effect on civilians hurt by strafing, bombing and fire bombs.

Communist agents are telling village people that the "rain of fighter pilots do not wait to be death" from the skies is Ameri-shot at. They are authorized to

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The U.S. government is considering ordering the withdrawal of American Air Force combat elements from South Viet Nam, The Associated Press learned Friday.

U.S. Army helicopter crews may receive orders in the next few days liberalizing rules under which they may shoot at Communist guerrillas. The helicopters would take over part of the role played by conventional fighter planes.

U.S. Air Force pilots are flying many of the operational strafing and bombing missions conducted by Vietnamese air force planes. During the past month, more than 35 per cent of enemy casualties claimed by the Saigon government and American command were inflicted by air force strikes.

U.S. pilots technically are in Viet Nam in purely advisory or supporting capacities, training the Vietnamese air force. In practice, a critical shortage of Vietnamese pilots has led to Americans piloting many planes.

Officials, both Vietnamese and American, have raised doubts if the effectiveness of air strikes against guerrillas is outweighed by the harmful psychological effect on civilians hurt by strafing, bombing and fire bombs.

Communist agents are telling village people that the "rain of fighter pilots do not wait to be death" from the skies is Ameri-shot at. They are authorized to make actual tactical strikes. The strikes are controlled by Vietnamese observers on the ground or in light observation planes. All combat planes carry Vietnamese markings.

According to various informed sources here, the Kennedy administration is deeply concerned by political charges both at home and from the Communist bloc that the United States is fighting an undeclared war in South Viet Nam.

Largely because of the influx of American pilots and planes, total Vietnamese sorties have increased from 150 a month one year ago to more than 1,000 a month. Most Vietnamese officials are understood to believe U.S. Air Force assistance is vital for the time being. The Saigon government is understood to have asked for even more planes and pilots, while stepping up its own training.

Under proposed new rules, helicopter crews would be authorized to fire at anything endangering a helicopter mission.

This would mean the crews could open fire immediately on enemy troop concentrations or gun positions without having to wait to draw fire.

Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, U.S. Army chief of staff, is understood to have urged a change in "rules of engagement" for helicopter crews after a recent inspection trip here. Gen. Emmett O'Donnell, Pacific Air Force chief, arrives here Saturday.

U.S. Air Force activity in South Viet Nam has been kept under secrecy wraps. Little information is released. No combat decorations have been awarded Air Force

men. Five U.S. Air Force officers have been killed in combat crashes.

Interservice rivalries and claims enter the picture.

The U.S. Military Assistance Command is controlled by Army officers. Some Air Force officials argue that the command has not given the Air Force a chance to prove its capabilities in guerrilla warfare.

On the other hand, certain military officials say that the Army is succeeding in persuading administration leaders in Washington that the war here can get along without American tactical air support.

AGED SEAGULL SHOT

HELSINKI (UPI) — A spokesman for the Finnish Zoological Institute Friday said a seagull shot two days ago in Bajadaz, Spain, was between 43 and 45 years old. Dr. Gooran disclosed that the gull was tagged near Helsinki on June 21, 1913 or 1915. The ring was so decayed that the date could not be established def-
